

Lindsey DeWitt Prat

Department of Languages & Cultures
Ghent University, Belgium

lindsey.dewitt@ugent.be ORCID ID: 0000-0001-9713-4766

research.flw.ugent.be/en/lindsey.dewitt lindseydewittpratresearch.org

TEACHING

I have taught a variety of courses at all levels, spanning large and medium-size introductory courses, fieldwork courses and study trips, and specialized graduate seminars in the US, Japan, and Europe. The following is a list of courses in reverse chronological order:

- Religion, Pilgrimage, and Gender in Japan, upper-division undergraduate course, 10 students. Department of Asian Studies, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem. Guest lecturer 2021, one 2-hour lecture.
- East Asian Ideologies, upper-division undergraduate course, 90 students. Department of Languages & Cultures, Ghent University. Co-designed and co-taught course 2020. Responsible for teaching medieval Japanese religions, mountain religion, gender, and pilgrimage.
- Cultural Heritage in Japan, upper-division undergraduate course, 150 students. Department of Art History, Musicology and Theatre Studies, Ghent University. Guest lecturer 2 times 2020–21, two 3-hour lectures.
- Sacred Heritage in Japan and Beyond, master-level intensive seminar, 5 students. Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. Guest instructor for self-designed and self-taught course 2018–19, 18 teaching hours.
- Entering the Peaks: The Visual Culture of Shugendō, undergraduate-level survey course, ca. 100 students. Division of East Asian Art History, Art History Institute, Department of History and Cultural Studies, Freie Universität, Berlin, Germany. Guest lecturer 2017, one 3-hour lecture.
- Okinoshima and the Munakata Shrine and Its Relationship to East Asia, 4th to 9th century, master-level seminar, 12 students. Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. Guest lecturer 2017, one 2-hour lecture.
- Space, Place, and Practice in East Asian Buddhism, master-level intensive seminar, 5 students. Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. Guest instructor for self-designed and self-taught intensive course 2016, 18 teaching hours.
- Mt. Fuji as Window to Japan: Sacred Space, Pilgrimage, Gender, upper-division undergraduate seminar, 30 students. “Global Praxis” UTokyo/ANU exchange program, The University of Tokyo, Japan. Guest lecturer 2 times 2016–17, two 2-hour lectures.
- History and Visual Culture Fieldwork: Kyoto and Nara, master-level two-term course and fieldwork program, 17 students. Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. Co-designed and co-taught course 2015–2016. Responsible for preliminary and on-the-ground-planning, curriculum, budget, and instruction.

- Premodern Japanese Religions and Culture, undergraduate-level survey course, 15 students. Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. Self-designed and self-taught course 2015–16.
- Readings, Research, and Methods in Japanese Humanities, master-level course, ca. 16 students. Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. Co-designed and co-taught course 3 times 2015–17.
- Religious Thought & Practice in Early Japan: Hōryūji and Tōdaiji, master-level seminar, 10 students. Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. Co-designed and co-taught course 2015–16.
- Experiencing Kyushu Culture and History *in Situ, master-level fieldwork course, ca. 15 students. Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. Co-designed and co-taught course 2 times 2015–16. Responsible for preliminary and on-the-ground-planning, curriculum, budget, and instruction.
- Buddhism in Asia: Cultures, Borders, Traditions, undergraduate-level survey course, 15 students. Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. Self-designed and self-taught course 2015. Bilingual Japanese and English.
- Buddhism & Local Cults: Conversations Between Buddhas and Gods, master-level seminar, 7 students. Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. Self-designed and self-taught course 2015.
- Culture of the Mountains: Yoshino and Ōminesan, master-level seminar, 15 students. Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. Guest lecturer and guide for two-day field study 2014. Responsible for preliminary and on-the-ground-planning, curriculum, and instruction.
- Japan Exploration Seminar, short-term study abroad program, ca. 17 undergraduate and master students. Department of Art History, University of Washington. Instructor of Record (2010) and graduate student assistant (2009). Itineraries included Kyoto, Nara, Mt. Kōya, and Kumano Kodō. Responsible in 2010 for preliminary and on-the-ground-planning, curriculum, budget, and instruction. Theme 2010: Gods and Mountains: Icons, Temples, and Pilgrimage in Japan. Theme 2009: Buddhist Temples in Japan, Past and Present.
- Religious Life in Modern Japan, upper-division undergraduate level course, ca. 50 students. Department of Asian Languages & Cultures, UCLA. Teaching Assistant 2012.
- Japanese Religions, undergraduate-level survey course, ca. 50 students. Department of Asian Languages & Cultures, UCLA. Substitute lecturer (Tokugawa Religion) 2013, 1 lecture. Teaching Assistant 2011.
- Introduction to Buddhism, undergraduate-level survey course, ca. 60 students. Department of Asian Languages & Cultures, UCLA. Teaching Assistant 4 times 2010–2013.
- Introduction to World Religions: Eastern Traditions, undergraduate-level survey course, 200+ students. Department of Asian Languages & Literature, University of Washington. Teaching Assistant 3 times 2006–2007.
- Anthropology of Death and Dying, undergraduate-level survey course, 100+ students. Department of Anthropology, University of Washington. Reader 4 times 2004–2006.

- Eastern Religions, undergraduate-level survey course, 200+ students. Department of Asian Languages & Literature, University of Washington. Center for Learning and Undergraduate Enrichment tutor. Facilitated and led evening review and discussion sections. 2005.

Forms of Assessment

I have experience with regular written exams, compulsory hand-in assignments, pop quizzes, case study or site reports, on-site and multimedia class presentations, journals, submission of handwritten class notes, annotated bibliographies, mock debates, observation of group work, and final research papers.

SUPERVISION

At Ghent University, I have assisted mentoring one BA thesis and one MA thesis, with another two MA theses ongoing. At Kyushu University, I served as an unofficial committee member and tertiary reader for eight MA theses. I also co-taught a Japanese Humanities methodology course for first-year MA students and an MA thesis tutorial course for second-year MA students. The following is a list of supervisees in reverse chronological order:

MA supervision

- | | |
|------|---|
| 2021 | Kim Moyaert. MA thesis topic: Women's agency in postwar Japan. Department of Languages & Cultures, University of Ghent, Belgium. |
| | Maxence Algoet. MA thesis topic: Hell, hot springs, and tourism in modern Japan. Department of Languages & Cultures, University of Ghent, Belgium. |
| 2020 | Lucca Vrielynck. MA thesis topic: Buddhism and shrine priestesses (miko) in Japan. Department of Languages & Cultures, University of Ghent, Belgium. |
| | Maxence Algoet. Bachelor thesis topic: Ritual and hot springs bathing in Japan. Department of Languages & Cultures, University of Ghent, Belgium. |
| 2018 | Jemma Gallagher. MA thesis: "Japanese Modern Mindfulness: An Evolving History." International Master's Program (IMAP) in Japanese Humanities, Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. (Public sector Olympic job in Tokyo) |
| 2017 | Minori Egashira. MA thesis: "The Life and Legacy of Takenouchi Hisakazu (1853–1916): Changing Assessments of Japanese Sculpture in Modern Japan." International Master's Program (IMAP) in Japanese Humanities, Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. (PhD candidate, Art History, University of Chicago) |
| | Sierra Skye Gysler. MA thesis: "Howl as a Tengu in Miyazaki Hayao's Howl's Moving Castle." International Master's Program (IMAP) in Japanese Humanities, Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. |
| | Catherine Otachime. MA thesis: "Visualizing the Sounds of Eternal Bliss: Representation of the Celestial Music of Amida's Descent in a Twelfth-Century Raigō Painting." International Master's Program (IMAP) in Japanese Humanities, Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. (PhD student, Asian Languages and Civilizations, University of Colorado) |
| 2016 | Steven Apotheker. MA thesis: "The Promotion of a National Museum in Kyushu: Local Support and Key Turning Points." International Master's Program (IMAP) in |

Japanese Humanities, Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan.
(Museum assistant, Fukuoka City Museum)

- 2015 Lisa Kochinski. MA thesis: “Kyushu, Kami, Court: The 749 Transfer of Hachiman from Usa Shrine to Tōdaiji Temple.” International Master’s Program (IMAP) in Japanese Humanities, Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. (PhD candidate, Religion and East Asian Languages and Cultures, University of Southern California)
- Kurtis Hanlon. MA thesis: “The 913 Teijiin Utaawase: A History, Translation, and Fresh Look at an Early Japanese Poetry Competition.” International Master’s Program (IMAP) in Japanese Humanities, Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. (PhD candidate, East Asian [Japanese] Literature, University of British Columbia)
- Caroline Oakley (Ross). MA thesis: “Nihonga Now: Continuity and Innovation in Contemporary Japanese-Style Painting.” International Master’s Program (IMAP) in Japanese Humanities, Faculty of Humanities, Kyushu University, Japan. (Special education teacher, UK)

BA supervision

- 2020 Maxence Algoet. Bachelor thesis topic: Ritual and hot springs bathing in Japan. Department of Languages & Cultures, University of Ghent, Belgium.

MENTORING

- 2020– UCLA Alumni Mentor Program. Volunteer mentoring for first-generation college students in the humanities.

PEDAGOGICAL TRAINING

Formal training

- Teaching Apprentice Practicum, 16 credits (=160 class hours). UCLA, 2012–13. Apprenticeship under active guidance and supervision of regular faculty member responsible for curriculum and instruction.
- Teaching Asian Languages at College Level, 4 credits (=40 class hours). UCLA, 2010. Lectures, peer observation and review, mock microteaching sessions, self-assessment based on video footage, and workshops on equity, inclusivity, and preparedness.

Informal training

- Recent MOOC audits:
 - “Inclusive Online Teaching Teach-Out,” course specialization by Johns Hopkins University on Coursera. Completed December 2021.
 - “New Learning: Principles and Patterns of Pedagogy,” course specialization by University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign on Coursera. Completed September 2021.
 - “e-Learning Ecologies: Innovative Approaches to Teaching and Learning for the Digital Age,” course specialization by University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign on Coursera. Completed August 2021.
- At Kyushu University and Ghent University, I have regularly attended departmental lunches and brown-bag seminars where various aspects of teaching are discussed.

- I follow the literature on mindful pedagogy, neuropedagogy, and digital humanities pedagogy, the former two linked to my deep interest in Buddhism and Buddhist Studies and the latter in connection with my broader interest in digital humanities research, especially in the realm of cultural heritage.

PEDAGOGICAL LEADERSHIP

- Delegate, 59th Japan-America Student Conference (JASC; Nichibei Gakusei Kaigi 日米学生会議). Theme: “Advocating Japan-America Participation in Global Change” 太平洋から世界へ～グローバルパートナーシップの探究と次代の創造～. Roundtable group: Creating Global Citizens: Education Focused on International Concerns 教育:次代を担う市民の育成. Tokyo, Akita, Hiroshima, Kyoto. July 26–August 20.
 - Final Forum presentation: “Perspectives on Religion and Gender in International Education.” Kyoto International Commons House, Kyoto, Japan. August 17.
 - Policy paper: “Perspectives on Religion and Gender in International Education.”